BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF RESPONSIBILITIES: The most impressive applicant will have a strong liberal arts or humanities background, as well as an interdisciplinary approach that bridges teaching in English to other disciplines. Demonstrated use of technology in teaching including social networking is a definite asset. The applicant will teach courses in the areas of English: Literature and Composition. Course titles may be Introduction to Literature, Composition I and II, and Advanced Writing, as well as upper-level majors classes. Periodically, the applicant may be asked to teach a pre-college English course. Specifically, the applicant must be able to teach strategies for critical reading and writing, use of sources in writing, as well as rules of grammar, syntax, mechanics, and usage. Additionally, the applicant must be able to introduce majors to fundamentals of literary research, including critical approaches, discovery of sources, and the writing of the literature review. The applicant must also demonstrate a strong interest in and commitment to student research/scholarship and be willing to serve as a mentor. The applicant will be expected to participate in the life of the college including active participation on major area and college committees, academic advising, professional development and community activities.

QUALIFICATIONS: The applicant must have a minimum of a Masters in English. The rank of Assistant or Associate Professor requires an earned doctorate degree, preferably the Ph.D. The applicant must have a minimum of 18 hours of graduate courses in each of the aforementioned areas. The applicant must have excellent written and verbal communications skills.

SPECIAL INFORMATION: The academic year for the College is early August through May 31. The Federal Government requires that every individual hired since May 31, 1987 complete the I-9. This requirement is in response to the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986. Form I-9 has been developed to verify that persons are eligible to work in the United States.

Persons interested in the above position should submit a resume along with a letter of interest, unofficial transcripts and at least three current letters of reference to:
